Chasing Light

Chasing Light is a new art/light/music installation that will be held during the Manassas One Love Arts Festival on Saturday, April 27. It is not meant to be the kind of performance that folks sit and watch, but participate in.

Dallas artist Carmen Menza will produce the first-of-its kind 3D projected visual and music installation on the Manassas Museum lawn. Menza hopes that visitors will connect with others and says that participatory public art affords us the experience of making something beautiful with those around us and strengthening a sense of community. The multi-level art installation will include 3D projected visuals and Chasing Light, an original musical score created by Mark Menza, a Dallas composer and Carmen’s husband.

Chasing Light, which Mark Menza wrote specifically for the City of Manassas, is a 21st century chamber piece that employs both recorded and live players and is juxtaposed to electronic and sampled sounds. Because a strong central element of this work is improvisation—using elements of jazz, philharmonic, soundscape, and an electronic score—it lends itself to improvisation by musicians at the event.

A copy of the musical score will be released prior to the event and musicians who want to participate on the night of the performance will be invited to join performers on stage. The music that community musicians perform will also trigger elements of the 3D light show and will continually transform throughout the evening. The projected visuals include abstract illuminated backgrounds and geometric objects created through camera shots and 3D software.

Mark Menza’s work may be familiar to those who have attended Manassas Ballet performances of Colin: Son, Marine, Hero, an original work that reflects on the life of the Ballet’s Artistic Director Amy Grant Wolfe’s son Colin, who was killed by a roadside bomb in Iraq in 2006. Menza created the original musical score for the ballet, which premiered in 2013 to national acclaim. The Manassas Ballet will be premiering Chasing Light at their March performance of A Fantasque Evening at the Hylton Performing Arts Center.

Spoken word artists and dancers are also invited to collaborate during the continuous performance. The underlying music will serve as a soundscape for those who perform spoken word and poetry as they are invited to take the stage alongside musicians and dancers throughout the evening.

Carmen Menza has works in several prominent public spaces including The McKinney Avenue Contemporary and the Aurora Light and Sound Biennial, both in Dallas. The Aurora event had more than 60,000 visitors.

The second annual One Love Manassas Festival, which will be held April 26 - 28, 2019, is designed to give artists a platform to perform, share their art, raise awareness, and inspire hope for the love of all artistic platforms. The three-day event features a juried art show, Manassas Reads - a literary arts event, performances by local musicians, a film showcase, a marketplace, panels and workshops. Leading up to Chasing Light, weekend participants will walk to the Museum Lawn carrying light orbs in a parade of sorts called Turn on Your Light. Each orb will represent that individual’s Celebration of Life through the arts.

The Virginia Commission for the Arts is sponsoring the Chasing Light installation. I know that spring must be just around the corner as we start hearing about the upcoming St. Patrick’s Day parade on March 9 at 11 a.m. and the reminders to “spring forward an hour” for daylight savings time. Having had the opportunity to really see the “greens” of Ireland and where my Irish ancestors lived, it gives me some time to reflect on some old Irish proverbs. One Irish proverb that comes to mind is:

“May you have the hindsight to know where you have been, The foresight to know where you are going, And the insight to know when you are going too far.”

As spring brings thoughts of renewal and new growth, it is important to think about where we have been and where we want to go. At our recent City Council retreat we began to talk about April 2, 2023. This date will be the sesquicentennial or 150th year anniversary of the 1873 founding of Manassas. 150 years gives us a lot of “hindsight” to explore as we look for vision to take us forward for another 150 years. Over the last year or so we have been gathering insights from you about our community and what you remember and cherish. This will continue over the next several years as we look to plan for our future and celebrate our past. This leads me to another Irish proverb:

“Always remember to forget The troubles that passed away. But never forget to remember The blessings that come each day.”

It is often our human nature to dwell on the “troubles” of the past instead of focusing on our blessings. I hope you will focus on the blessing that we share. One way we are blessed in the City of Manassas is through the blending of cultures and heritages that make this a unique and special place.

About 16% of your neighbors moved in within the past year. Most moved from within Virginia but about 10% came from a different state and about 3% from abroad. Manassas proper has over 41,000 residents and we continue to see diversity in our neighbors. Since 2010 our Asian population has grown by 56% and the Hispanic/Latino population by 35%. As of 2017 less than half of Manassas residents are white and non-Latino. We are also getting a bit older with the fastest growing age group being those between the ages of 60-69. This trend really fits the proverb:

“Do not resent growing old, Many are denied the privilege.”

So in the Irish tradition for the month of March, I close with this toast to you -

“For each petal on the shamrock This brings a wish your way Good health, good luck and happiness For today and every day.”
