*Crime Prevention Tip from the Federal Trade Commission \(FTC\):

Don't believe callers, emails or texts that say they're from the Internal Revenue Service \(IRS\). Tax identity thieves may send phony "phishing" emails that appear to be from the IRS and ask you to click on a link and provide your personal information online or over the phone. Don't do it. The IRS doesn't email, call, or text people to get personal information. If the IRS needs to contact you, they will do so by mail. If you have any doubt whether a message is legitimate, call the IRS directly. For more information on IRS scams, click here.
